20-Billion-Dollar Per Year Scheme Is Here Unfolded

turn instead of a bleak and fearful winter? (2) that the withdrawal from general occupations of those over 60 would create jobs for the young unemployed, and (3) that the spending of this enormous sum of money—about 20 billion dollars a year—by the aged would enormously expand sales and sales in a country economy.

Against the plan there are five main objections: (1) that the nature and burden of the proposed "transaction tax" would be ruinous; (2) that the plan would not create purchasing power; (3) that it would not create jobs; and (4) that it proposes a grossly unjust redistribution of income. Let us consider these.

HE'S FATHER OLD-AGE PLAN

I—"TRANSACTION TAX"

In determining how the Townsend plan would be likely to work out, it is necessary first to recognize its dimensions.

The census figures for 1930 show that out of a total population of 22,775,000 there were 10,365,000 persons, or 45 per cent, 60 years old and over.

The Townsends contend that when the wealthy and the young would not like to abandon their property and the aged would not like to leave their homes, more than 8 million persons would be left to take advantage of the plan.

To give these 8 million persons cash to take advantage of the plan, $200 million would be required for the first year, and $1,000 million for the second year, and so on.

That is more than five times the total revenues of the Federal Government from all sources for the fiscal year 1935. It is equal to 40 per cent of the entire income of the American people in 1934.

A FIGURE EXAMINED

What the Townsends propose is a tax of 2 per cent on all business transactions. The figure for 1934 shows that the Federal Government has frequently cited 1300 billion dollars. This figure is apparently based on an estimate by Dr. Golownski of the Federal Reserve Board that the nation's "bank deposits" totalled 1300 billions in 1929.

Several things are to be said about this figure. It is a 1929 figure; the equivalent figure for 1934 is only 470 billions. But, it is greatly in excess not merely of the national income, but of the total payments in the country for goods and services.

A substantial part of it represents loans renewed daily and indirectly transferred between banks and between accounts of the same individual or corporation.

A huge part represents, in short, mere bookkeeping necessities. A huge part represents speculations in stocks, bonds and commodities.

The first effect of a 2 per cent tax on most of these items would be to bring about an enormous shrinkage in the transactions themselves.

Let us see what would happen to speculation and even to investment. It would cost a man 2 cents to buy a 100-cent bond. Such bonds now yield about 2 1/2 per cent. If he would hold the bond 100 cents, it would cost him 2 cents more. Thus he would lose at least 1 per cent of his money.

EFFECT ON MARKETS

The same principle would apply to stocks and commodities. No speculator would buy wheat at 81 until he felt convinced that he would sell it for at least more than $1.04. The consequent narrowing of the market and driving away of buyers would probably cause a collapse in both commodities and commodities. A financial and banking panic of this sort would hardly help to bring back prosperity.

A tax on all transactions would obviously penalize small corporations at the expense of "vertical trusts" like the Ford Motor Company, which has its own rubber plantations, glass works, blast furnaces, railroad units, ships and the like.

It would also pyramid itself definitely on all retail purchases. A consumer buying a cotton dress, for example, would not merely have passed on to her a 2 per cent tax on the retail cost of the dress, but 2 per cent on its wholesale cost, 2 per cent on its jobbing cost, 2 per cent on the cost of the cloth to the manufacturer, 2 per cent on the cost of the cotton in the textile mill, 2 per cent on all transportation costs and raw cotton, 2 per cent on all the wages paid at each stage of production or transport, and 2 per cent on all incidental supplies bought in the process.

INCREASE THE SOURCE

What the Townsends forget is that no matter what form of tax is chosen, it must eventually come out of the incomes of those who pay it. If 20 billion dollars is to be raised, then if the total income of the United States is 50 billions, the Department of Commerce estimates for the year 1934) the people as a whole must surrender an average of 40 per cent of their incomes to raise it. If the income in 1935 has risen to 60 billions, they must surrender a third of their incomes to pay it.

If total business transactions really did amount to 1300 billions annually, it is true that more than 20 billions could be raised by a tax of "only" 2 per cent on transactions. But each would still have to pay this 2 per cent tax as often on each article that cost of living would be raised on the average by 50 per cent. That is, out of every $100 spent, 50, or one-third, would have to go for taxes to pay the 20 billion Townsend pensions out of a total national income of 60 billions.

It would apply to the pensioners themselves—their $320 a month—97 would be turned back in taxes.

II—BUYING POWER

The claim of the Townsends is that one need not pay too much attention to the present national income because the plan itself would create purchasing power.

Some of their literature holds that if 20 billions of dollars is paid out each dollar of it will turn itself over at least ten times and produce some 200 billions of purchasing power or "extra business" whatever. At best it would simply transfer 15 to 20 billions of purchasing power from one part of the population to another—from those nine-tenths of the people to less than one-tenth.

Those who paid for the pensions through taxation would lose exactly as much purchasing power as those who received the pensions would gain.

III—MONEY "VELOCITY"

The sponsors of the plan lay great stress on the claim that it would speed up business through the provision that each recipient of the $320 a month would use one part of it before the end of the month, but in fact the plan would greatly increase even velocity of money circulation.

A man can spend his income only once. If he spends exactly $200 each month he will have no more at the end of the year than he had at the beginning. If he buys, say, more at Christmas and less at other times, he will have the same amount at the end of the year.

IV—"JOB CREATION"

One of the chief claims of the Townsends is that their plan will solve the unemployment problem by creating jobs, because there are over 60 million who have to retire, leaving vacancies to be filled by the young jobless. Some of the Townsends talk as if 6 million jobs would be created; others claim only the 4 million "gainfully employed" reported out of the 10 million persons over 60 in the 1930 census.

But it is obvious that the plan would not create new jobs, but at best merely substitute one jobholder for another—a young one for an older one. In a line of property it would mean an actual reduction of 4 million in the number of those working. This would mean less production and less wealth for everyone.

V—REDISTRIBUTION

It is interesting to examine what the new distribution of income advocated by the Townsends would involve. On the basis of a national income of 50 billions dollars in 1934, the payment of 20 billions to 8 million persons would mean that less than 7 per cent of the population of the country would receive 40 per cent of its income, while the other 93 per cent would receive among them only 60 per cent of its income.

The matter may be stated another way. Let us assume that the total income of the 127 million persons in the United States has risen in 1935 to 60 billions dollars. The mean average annual income of $474 per person.

If it is proposed through a transaction tax to take away one-third of that from 118 million persons, so that 8 millions can have an annual income for each of them of $2400. Strictly speaking, the 8 millions will therefore also pay 20 billion dollars a year, so that they will have an annual income of only $1600.

Yet more than nine-tenths of the citizens will have their individual incomes cut to an average of $15 a year so that less than one-tenth of the citizens may enjoy net incomes of $1600 a year, or five times as much.

Perhaps the basic fallacy underlying the Townsend plan, as Walter Reuther in his book "The Mountains of the Moon" has pointed out, is that if people worked less and lived longer, they would be "richer." If this is so, and if paying $2400 a year to persons over 60 would produce such remarkable results, why stop there? Why not $5000 persons for every one over 40? Or $10,000 persons for persons over 30?

Egypt's great river, the Nile, has its origin in tiny springs, the "Mountains of the Moon." These are a range near the equator in the Belgian Congo, between Lake Edward and Lake Albert.

CITY COUNCIL RULES AGAINST LUMBER FIRM

Will Not be Allowed to Use Business Site for Storage Purposes

Adopting a resolution, by the town planning commission, city council ruled Monday night that the Muttart Lumber Co. would not be permitted to use its 80 street business site for lumber storage purposes. Under provisions of the zoning bylaw, this section of the city is designated as residential, and the company's use of property in question has been a bone of contention between the firm and neighboring property-holders for some time past.

Suggesting that the question be referred back to the commission for further consideration, Ald. E. East felt that the street on which the lumber company is situated should be a business street. It appeared as if after discussing the matter, the city council had decided to use of drive industries out of the city, he said, adding that he understood the lumber yard had been located in the district before the complaining residents had erected their homes.

Ald. W. W. Cleverly agreed wholeheartedly with this view.

Poking the stand that council should adopt the recommendation made by the commission, Ald. Margaret Craig stated that use of the site in question for lumber storage would make a roundabout bylaw, which should be upheld.

FATHER, SON LOSE JOBS IN CIVIC SERVICE

Dismissed by Hon. W. A. Fallow, Minister of Public Works

Father and son were dismissed from the provincial government service on Monday when Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, authorized the dismissal of Daniel E. MacDonald, for 20 years a departmental employee and his son, F. H. MacDonald, chief architect of the department. The pair were given one month's pay in lieu of notice.

The father occupied the post of buildings superintendent. His original appointment was as assistant superintendent, but he was promoted to his present position in 1910.

BEAM OF LIGHT IS TRAINED ON QUARTZ PLATE

Experiment Proves That Light Can Be Made to Exact a Twisting Force on a Material Object.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Worcester, Mass. Jan. 14.—A beam of light, when twisted, exerts an twisting force on any material object, according to a new experiment reported in the American Association for the Advancement of Science Monday by Dr. Richard A. Beth of Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

Spin of light, or its angular momentum, means that each particle or photon of light is capable of spinning like a speeding rifle bullet.

This has been pure theory until now.

Dr. Beth found a method of proving its existence and measuring it by training a beam of light on a circular quartz plate, one inch in diameter and about three-thousandths of an inch thick.

The light came from a tungsten filament glowing at temperatures ranging from 4500 to 5500 degrees Fahrenheit. The quartz plate, hung in a vacuum and the light before striking the plate was polarized by passing it through a prism.

ANGULAR MOMENTUM

"The experiment," Dr. Beth states in his report, "proves that light can be made to exert a twisting force on a material object in other words light or radiation can be made to carry an angular momentum through empty space which may be transferred to matter."

"The angular momentum is observed as a twisting force or torque on the disc by suspending this disc from a very fine quartz fibre about a foot long. The torque measured was about one ten-thousandth of a pound force. A pound force is the twisting force represented by a horse on the ground starting at the circumference of a wheel one foot in diameter."

COMMISSIONERS TO SEEK LOWER INTEREST RATE

Commissioners were instructed Monday night by city council to co-operate with Premier Albert and Mayor A. Davison, of Calgary, with a view to securing lower interest rates on provincial and municipal debts. This action was taken following recent discussions between the premier and Mayor Davison in this connection.

Questioning such a move, Ald. R. E. Poole asked how the city could honestly seek reduced interest rates if it did not meet the request of Eastern Canada municipalities that Edmonton cut the interest on their bonds to the same rate as this city.

Any action taken by council would have to be consistent, he said.

"If we ask certain things we won't be given anything for nothing," declared Ald. J. W. Fry. Council finally carried the motion by Ald. E. East that the form be referred to the commissioners with instructions to co-operate with the other two parties.

Gomez Increases Lead In Voting

HAVANA, Jan. 14.—Former Mayor or Miguel Mariano Gomez of Havana increased his lead over Gen. Mario G. Menocal in the race for constitutional president of Cuba to 57,178 Monday.

The claim of the Townsends is that one need not pay too much attention to the present national income because the plan itself would create purchasing power.

Closing Of Mine Receives Protest

Strong protest over the proposed closing of the Consolidated mine, wherein 16 miners met their death, has been heard by the provincial government. The miners intend to work a coal blast last month, which was scheduled with the provincial government. Miners Request Government Fix Weekly Pay Day

Institution of weekly pay days instead of fortnightly was requested by a delegation of the United Mine Workers of Canada. In interviewing Premier William Abernethy, the delegation requested government on Monday.

The delegation discussed both the weekly pay day and the miners' demands and resolutions adopted at the Alberta Coal Branch conference.

Weekly remuneration for miners of a minimum of $25 a week was requested.

It was also urged that the government have an ambulance and attend to all mine accidents.

Erection of a modern hospital at every mining town was another point stressed by the delegation.

Emphasis was also laid on the fact that no money would be issued only to miners already in Alberta.

In reply, the premier stated that consideration would be given to the representations.

THE "Sacred Calabash" was made by cutting off one end of the gourd, and boring four holes equidistant from the upper edge. The gourd then was filled with water, which ran out through the holes if it were tipped in any direction. This made it possible for the navigator to keep the instrument level.

Eksks battled from behind once, lost the lead once, then broke a two-all deadlock to win out at the finish of a hard-fought and interesting encounter.

Scores Nice One

Art Gagne, former player with the old Western League and with the National League and now playing right wing for Edmonton Eskimos, who flashed some of his old time form last night, when he smartly outwitted goalie Timmins, after a brilliant run down the length of the ice, in Edmonton 3-2 victory over Calgary Tigers.

GENE CARRIGAN, rangy South Siders, who has a finger on the ice of the inter-city rivalry between Calgary and Edmonton has been revived. . . . It's been a long time since I've seen the boys go about their work with such determination and intention of purpose as they did last night. . . .
